Pre-employment screening is a crucial part of the recruitment process. Adequate pre-employment screening helps you find the best talent and ensures workplace safety. According to research, 52% of organisations conduct background checks to improve the quality of their hires. Hiring unqualified staff results in poor retention, lower productivity, and higher compliance risk. Performing satisfactory background checks is a challenge. Inadequate screening can create problems such as incomplete coverage, missing key data points, or producing false positive reports that can jeopardise the organisation's reputation. However, at giant screening, we can help you with all your background screening requirements. We have created a smart approach to pre-employment screening that offers the highest quality results, reaching across the globe.

improve your final decision with detailed screening

At giant screening, we can improve your background check competencies with our full range of UK and international checks. With our comprehensive background checks, you can rapidly and precisely validate a broad range of professional qualifications, employment histories, credit check reports, and criminal backgrounds for potential hires who have lived, worked, or have been educated inside and outside of core screening location. At giant, our checks are not limited to the UK only. We support clients across the globe. Hence giant screening can deliver global screening requirements for your clients regardless of their geographical location. When you need an international criminal check, database check, or credit history verification, we can help you hire with confidence.

A global workforce requires in-depth background checks from an experienced provider who can centralise all your global requirements. We offer the highest quality background checks that always provide peace of mind that all your employees have been accurately screened, leaving you free to concentrate on other critical areas. With clients in over 60 countries and complete coverage in over 220 countries, we understand data privacy laws, compliance risks, and specific screening limitations of each location. With our expertise, you can make the right hiring decision always.
